4(1H)-5,6-dihydropyrimidin-4-one--.

REMARKS

Applicants have reviewed the specification of the above identified application and have noted that the cross-reference to the related International application was inadvertently omitted. The Declaration filed in connection with the present application listed the pending International application as a prior application, benefit of which is claimed under 35 U.S.C. §120.¹ The original Official Filing Receipt failed to include the international application and applicants accordingly filed a Request for Corrected Filing Receipt, in response to which a corrected Filing Receipt was issued which listed the International application.

Moreover, applicants filed an Information Disclosure Statement on September 10, 1992, in which all of the publications cited in each of the French priority applications and in the International applications were disclosed to the Examiner for his review. Thus, the record is clear that the present application is based in part on the International application, and entry of this aspect of the present Amendment is warranted and would not cause an undue burden on the Patent Office.

The remaining amendments are to correct clerical errors appearing in the specification and it is respectfully submitted that entry of these amendment would not introduce any new matter into the specification nor would it create an undue burden on the Patent Office. More particularly, it is obvious that the term "spirocyclopentane" is missing from the compound on page 50, because the compound is obtained by reacting the compound obtained in Step (C) (page 50, lines 17-18) with the 4-bromomethyl-2'-tert-butoxycarbonylbiphenyl.

¹ 35 U.S.C. §120 requires that the specification contain a specific reference to the earlier filed application.

Serial No. 07/794497

The amendments to pages 60 and 75 are to more correctly identify the compounds and to conform the nomenclature to the remainder of the disclosure. Accordingly, entry of these amendments is most respectfully requested.

Respectfully submitted,
